A Letter From the President

As Bob Dylan sang, "Times are a changing" nothing could be more true for the IDGA. I want to let you all know of some of the many changes that have occurred this last year.

We have had a few changes in our officer team this year. Guinevere McIntyre is currently serving as our Interim Secretary and has done a great job with updating our website and trying to make the most out of it for each of you to use as members. Judith Nayeri is serving us as our Interim Treasurer and has been hard at work organizing our books and trying not to go blind on paper work! Also, I am now serving you as your President and am excited to serve the association in any way I can.

Besides our changes with officers and our website we have also created a Facebook page (Iowa Dairy Goat Association) in which you can keep up with events or if you have a question or have a related event yourself you want others to know about! (appraisals, goats for sale, ect.) Please be sure to take advantage of our website and our facebook page as they are set up for you to use! We also are in the works of creating a vinyl banner that would have the IDGA's logo, emblem, ect. That can be used during the state fair, spring show, and other events that may arise!

Also please be sure to mark your calendars for our annual meeting on October, 5th 2013 at the Colo Public rec center in Colo, Iowa. I hope to see you all at the state fair and best of luck finishing your showing seasons!

Eagle Creek Farm earns honors

Tim Schmidt did some final clipping shortly before the show as Kara kept the young goat quiet.

HAWARDEN, Iowa-For a family that got into goats almost by accident, the Schmidt family of northwestern Iowa has come a long way. The family bought its first Nubian goats when it was raising sheep and needed some nursemaids. That was 13 years ago and things have changed since then.

"We decided we liked goats better than sheep," Mary said with a chuckle.

Both Tim and Mary Schmidt grew up with livestock-Tim with Simmentals, hogs, and sheep, and Mary with Angus cattle. They knew nothing about dairy in any form...or about goats, for that matter.

After those first Nubians, the family switched to Toggenburgs.

"We went to get another goat for a nursemaid. The lady let us pick one out of 30 or 40 kids. The one we picked was already entered in shows. She asked if she could show it and it won the Nebraska State Fair as a junior kid and was reserve at Iowa," Mary said. "She said we'd have to bring it back the next year."

That was the start of showing goats for the Schmidt family. That first Toggenburg, Macey, became a permanent champion and many of the present show goats trace back to her.

Letter From the Secretary

We have a page on the IDGA website (www.iowadairygoat.org) that I want to be sure everyone knows about. It's our Brag Page, and this is where you get to show off highlights from your herd. You can access it from the main page of website, just look at the menu on the right, so please check it out. It's free to all members, and actually, only available to members, it's great exposure for your herd, and something for all IDGA members to have pride in!

The Schmidts of SCHMIDT/ECF Toggenburgs have helped to kick things off with their beautiful ADGA National Show Toggenburg Jr Champion, SCHMIDT/ECF Zest Marvel, and we are also proud to show off Kara Schmidt's ADGA National Show Senior Showmanship championship.

We're looking to post new Champions, appraised Excellent, 3000# milkers, Superior Genetics designations, and national show wins. As they happen, let us know and we will get you on the site! We'll need the goat's picture, name, qualifying score or records as applicable, the name of the breeder, your name and herd name, and whatever contact info you would like us to post.

There's nothing I love more than getting updates onto the website (ok, not entirely true, but you know what I mean) so please send submissions for the Brag Page (or any other correspondence) to me at jasperfarm@live.com.
